Overlooking the Hirakata Ohashi Bridge; in the early Showa era

The first Hirakata Ohashi Bridge, which had just been built in 1933, can be seen. It was made of former steel bridges of Keihan Electric Railway, which had been relocated from the Uji and Kizu Rivers and reused.

Overlooking the Kitakawachi County Office; sometime between 1897 and 1906

The roof of the Kitakawachi County Office can be seen in the center. The former site of the County Office has now been transformed into a park, but Mitsuya Village used to be a home to a number of important facilities of Hirakata-shuku including toyaba, honjin and kosatsuba.
